

HARRY G. GAMAGE IS NAMED CAT GRID COACH

Freshmen Seem Well On Their Way To Another State Net Championship

SHIVELY WILL BE HIS FIRST ASSISTANT

Harry G. Gamage, former University of Illinois football star, who succeeded Bert Ingwerson as freshman coach at the University of Illinois in the fall of 1924, accepted a two-year contract as head coach of the University of Kentucky football team at a meeting with the athletic council of the University of Kentucky at the Phoenix hotel last Friday night.

Those present at the meeting were President Frank L. McVey, Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, chairman of the council, S. A. Boles, athletic director of the university; Prof. E. A. Bureau, L. L. Haggin, John Stoll, L. L. Hillenmeyer, Prof. Enoch Grohan, Charles Wert, captain of the 1927 football team, and Gayle Mohney and Henry Gossnell, student members of the athletic council.

Gamage's election was unanimous. The salary to be paid was not made public.

Gamage was signed as year-around coach to succeed Fred J. Murphy, who resigned as head coach of football at the University of Kentucky at the conclusion of the 1926 season. Gamage will begin his official duties with spring practice in March and April. He will bring his family here to live.

Got Start at Macomb, Ill. Born in Macomb, Ill., the new coach was graduated from the high school in this Illinois city, and entered the Western Illinois Teachers College at Macomb in the fall of 1918. He played football there in 1918 and 1919, entering the University of Illinois in the fall of 1920 and playing as a freshman at the guard position. In the fall of 1921 he entered the varsity ranks and made good immediately, being mentioned on several all-Western Conference teams for his exceptional work in the line.

Gamage graduated in June, 1922, and went to Fairmont, W. Va., in the fall of 1922 to take a position as head football and basketball coach of the high school there. His teams won the championship in each sport in his particular section. In 1923 he coached the Parkersburg, W. Va., football team, turning out a winning eleven.

Bert Ingwerson's resignation as freshman coach at Illinois to accept the position as head football coach at the University of Iowa left the Illini without a capable freshman coach and Gamage was recalled in the fall of 1924 to succeed him. He has been head freshman coach ever since.

Highly Regarded by Zuppke

It is understood that Gamage is highly regarded as a gridiron mentor by Bob Zuppke, gray-haired veteran of football and head coach at Illinois for over 10 years. Although Zuppke naturally does not like to see Gamage leave to take up where Fred Murphy left off at Kentucky, he does not regret that he is leaving Illinois to assume a higher position, with more honor attached, than was the case at Champaign.

As an evidence of Gamage's ability to develop freshmen players, it is pointed out that six of the regulars on Mr. Zuppke's near-championship Illini eleven last fall received their first lessons under Gamage in the fall of 1925.

Gamage is a quiet fellow with a pleasing personality and bears a resemblance to "Red" Grange. He said last night that he would have to look over the situation before he announces any plans. He did say, however, that he was sure that his first assistant would be Ed Shively, who played guard on the University of Illinois eleven last fall and who was named on several all-American elevens at the conclusion of the 1926 season. Gamage stated that Shively, in addition to being assistant football coach, probably would have charge of track practice.

Gamage had a breakfast engagement with President McVey at 8:30 o'clock last Saturday morning. He returned to Champaign that night. He plans to return to Lexington about the middle of February. He stated that he did not expect any trouble in severing his connections with the Illinois institutions, as he has been on a year-to-year contract since assuming his duties there.

Social life at Ottawa University, Kansas, moves along without the aid of Greek letter fraternities. The substitute is "social groups." The students are divided into sections of 35 or 40 for social purposes. The division is "not arbitrary but along the lines of natural congeniality and friendships already existing." No rituals or insignia are permitted, and there are no intercollegiate affiliations.

All upperclassmen at Dartmouth college are required to take part in some athletic activity three times a week for the entire year.

VANDY BESTS 'CATS WITH RANGY TEAM

Vanderbilt passed too fast and shot too accurately for the University of Kentucky Wildcats at the Euclid avenue gymnasium Saturday night and ran up a 48 to 32 score while the Wildcats stood by, almost helpless to defend themselves against a team which towered high above them and which possessed two players—Baker and Bridges—who just couldn't miss when they took a crack at the basket.

Kentucky did remarkably well in the first half, that is during the first 15 minutes of the period, alternating in the lead with their friendly enemies until the final five minutes, when Baker and Bridges found the goal more frequent and forged ahead at the conclusion of the period by a 25 to 16 score.

Phipps started activities in the second half with a follow-up shot and besides another set-up shot made by Phipps, Kentucky allowed Vanderbilt to run the score up rapidly, with first Bridges, the Stuart, and then Bridges tallying. Phipps broke the ice for the Wildcats again with another leap and Ropke made a pretty one from the foul line. Jenkins added two foul throws and Phipps shot another crisp. Thomas, substitute for Baker, made a goal for Vandy and then Ropke and Jenkins made two goals from the field, Paul scoring his lone field goal of the game within a minute of its close.

Frank Phipps evidently is tickled pink that he led the scoring, and well he should be, for he played the best game he has shown this season, dropping in five field goals on crimps and follow up shots.

From this standpoint of the game, the 'Cats did well to hold their much taller opponents to the small margin of victory. With the possible exception of Bridges, the Vandy men were all six footers and hardly ever failed to get possession of the ball after a jump. Dees did fine work at warding off crimp shots, although the opponents' passing attack was so swift that he often lost the ball in the haze and guarded another man, while the other fellow made an easy goal.

Knadler shot four out of five free throws, while Jenkins got four out of six.

INJURIES FROM COASTING FATAL

Claude Baisley, Centre Student, Dies at Hospital in Danville After Accident on Sled Tuesday

SHIELDED HIS COMPANION

Claude Baisley, of Somerset, sophomore at Centre College, died at the hospital in Danville Saturday night from injuries suffered last Tuesday night when the sled upon which he was coasting crashed into an automobile. Accompanying young Baisley on the coasting expedition was Miss Wanda Tucker, a sophomore in the Danville High school. They were making their last trip down the Third street hill before ending an evening of fun.

Young Baisley's friends who were coasting during the evening say had it not been that he threw himself into the automobile, Miss Tucker might have suffered more serious injuries. Miss Tucker is confined to the hospital with a broken collar bone but is otherwise uninjured.

Baisley was a member of the Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity and had maintained an excellent scholastic record at Centre. He was popular among his classmates and his death is mourned by the entire student body.

The University of Kentucky also entered into the sport offered by the heavy snowfall last week but except for a few minor injuries, all escaped unharmed. Sympathy of the Kentucky student body is extended to that of Centre College and to the bereaved family.

Dr. Rush Is Speaker

Discusses Hygiene Work at Teachers' Luncheon

Dr. J. E. Rush, head of the department of hygiene of the University of Kentucky, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Lexington Teachers Luncheon Club at the Phoenix hotel Saturday.

In his address Dr. Rush took up the system of hygiene which he would like to establish in the public schools.

Overton Kemp entertained with a group of songs following Dr. Rush's address. The work of the legislative committee was outlined by Miss Mary E. Clark, chairman of the committee. The program was in charge of Miss Ann Whitney Smith, who presided at the meeting. About fifty persons were present.

Vassar College girls are abandoning bobbed hair in all its forms and are returning to long tresses as soon as nature will permit. The change in hair dressing styles amounts almost to a stampede, according to the beauty shops catering to the college trade. Hair dressers attribute the sudden shift to the impression among the girls that the bob is too common, as they express it.

Women students at Vassar have decreed that girls shall have long hair rather than the very short bobs that have been "good" so long, but the students at Barnard College refuse to conform to the Vassar style. Fully two-thirds of the 1,000 girls enrolled there have short locks.

KITTENS, JEFF AT BAT, BEAT MANUAL

After toying with Neal Arntson's Louisville du Pont Manual basketball team for three periods, the University of Kentucky freshmen, undefeated this season, came with a rush in the final quarter to snatch a 28 to 16 victory from their opponents last Saturday night.

Louisville fans saw Irvine Jeffries, erstwhile all-American player, for the team he defeated tonight, slash away with all his old time mighty force to score 15 points in five minutes and make the Kittens place secure in the Kentucky basketball world at least for another day. His spectacular floor work and shooting brought the spectators to their feet more than once and despite the fact that he is wearing the green and white of Kentucky instead of the Crimson of Manual, Louisville cheered him lustily.

The first half was slow, with the Kittens leading at the end of each quarter. The various scores were 5 to 4, 18 to 14, 20 to 15 and finally 28 to 16.

"Spooks" Milward came through with three crisp shots, although Manual had heard of the 20 points he made against Wesleyan frosh and were prepared for him.

Petrall played a brilliant game for the Manual five, scoring 10 of the 16 points garnered by the Louisville team.

The lineups: Manual (16): Pos. Ky. Frosh (28) Render (2) F. (15) Jeffries German (2) F. (5) Lyons Petrall (10) C. (6) Milward Jones (2) G. (1) Combs Brown (2) G. (1) Miller Substitutions: Manual—Kreasing (2), Deddens. Kittens—McBrayer, McCrane. Field Goals—Kittens 12; Manual 5.

PROFESSOR MARTIN RETURNS

Prof. J. Holmes Martin, head of the poultry section of the University of Kentucky, returned last Saturday from Lafayette, Ind., where he spoke at the annual meeting of Indiana farmers. He also conferred with Prof. L. E. Card at the University of Illinois. Professor Card is president and Professor Martin is secretary-treasurer of the Poultry Science Association, and they will have charge of the association's exhibit at the world's poultry congress in Canada next summer.

MILWARD IS STAR IN VICTORY OVER CUBS, SCORING 20 POINTS

Taking everything into consideration—juggled lineup and all—the University of Kentucky freshmen did right well in romping over the Kentucky Wesleyan Panther Cubs, 49 to 29, at the university gymnasium last Thursday night. But at that the score was somewhat of a disappointment to the writer, who confidentially expected the Kittens to score at least 50 points against the Winchester foe.

It took the local five quite a spell to get going at the start, but once they began their drive, everything looked a bluish-green—especially for Wesleyan. If we must go into ecstasies about this rally, we would say it was magnificent! And Stanley Milward—most everybody calls him "Spooks"—this "Phantom" Jeffries, June Lyons, Pigah Combs and the old reliable, Len Miller, were the five reasons that this particular rally, which proved so bewildering, as well as devastating, to the Cubs, was started. Milward missed getting the tip-off from Johnson once during the first half and invariably sent the oval into the waiting paws of some Kittens. Then it was just a matter of zip, zip, zip and presto. Two points. Easy? Yes, although Jeffries and even "Spooks" missed some of these many crimps.

Wesleyan Takes Lead

Wesleyan took a 7 to 3 lead in the first two minutes of the fray. Johnson scored first with a spot shot from

KITTENS DEFEAT U. OF L. FROSH

Jefferson County First Teamers Hold Junior Felines to 36 to 29 Score Tuesday Night in Men's Gym

IS VICTIMS' FIRST LOSS

(By WARREN A. PRICE)

The University of Louisville's hopes for a state Freshman basketball crown were blasted last Tuesday night in the Men's gym when Coach McFarland's Kittens opened up in the waning minutes of the game and beat Coach Kenzler's charges by the count of 36 to 29. The score at the end of the first half was 22 to 7, with the Kittens out in front.

An influx of Kitten substitutes two minutes before the end of the first half and their continuance of playing into the second half, allowed the visitors to make 20 points and come within two points of catching the Kittens. Coach McFarland, realizing that the game had become a serious affair instead of a set-up, as the game appeared in the first half, injected his first team again in the line-up. During the remaining eight minutes of play, the contest was a furious struggle, with the cleverness and skill of the Kittens slowly pulling them away from the Louisville Frosh.

The game started out like it would be another practice affair, similar to the contests, which the Kittens have played so far. With Jeffries, Milward, Lyons and Combs dribbling through the opposition at will and shooting goals with clock-like precision, the score began to advance with leaps and bounds until the intermission. After this point, with Kitten subs in the lineup, the game became more even.

No man on the Kitten aggregation outshone the other, every man functioning as a perfect cog in a piece of machinery. For Louisville, Thompson and Schanze contributed the best performances, with the former contributing nine points to his team's total points.

the foul line. Jeff shot a foul and Milward tied it up with a set-up shot. K. Miller and Cundiff then got two consecutive field goals for Wesleyan to bring the score 7 to 3 in their favor. But it was just a matter of time and goals by Milward and Lyons tied the thing up tighter than Dick's hat-band if everybody counted right the final whistle in the first half found the Kittens leading by a 26 to 9 margin.

Milward started the work for Kentucky in the second half, sinking a pretty set-up shot a few seconds after the first tip-off. Jeffries got one from the foul line and Rose then sank one for Wesleyan to bring the score 30 to 11.

Along the about this time McFarland decided on different tactics and sent in his second wrecking crew, composed of Page, McBrayer, McLane, Adams and Howard. These boys did fairly well, despite the fact that Trainer Mann ran out of jerseys before all the freshmen were outfitted before the game started. Wesleyan started somewhat of a rally but McFarland cut it short by sending his original wrecking crew back into the fray. And everything turned out perfectly right.

McBrayer Shows Ability

McBrayer displayed quite a bit of natural basketball ability during the time that he was in the game, ringing up three pretty baskets. Although he is yet a little weak on dribbling, this was overlooked by virtue of his excellent shooting.

Jeffries' floor work was the best he has displayed this season, although his 13 points was just seven behind Milward's total—20—which included six field goals and eight foul shots. "Spooks," by the way, made good eight of 10 free throws. Jeff made as many field goals as did Milward, although he was fouled only once, making this one good.

For Wesleyan, Rose, forward, played a good floor work, and Johnson had the best eye for the basket. The team did not appear to be of state championship calibre by any means, although it will undoubtedly win more games from weaker opposition than it encountered last night.

The Well-Dressed Athlete

(What He Will Wear Next Season)

Burlesque Number Big Ten Weekly

By Freddie Boulevard

More than ever before what the well-dressed athlete is coming to depends on his personal fancies and whims. I have noted at the fashionable campuses, watering places and winter resorts for young men a wider latitude in the choice of design, material and colorings.

The costume of the modern athlete, particularly our young stalwarts of the gridiron has undergone many changes. There seems to be a note of democracy in the new styles, a trend toward greater freedom, a complete divorce from the former rigid lines of formalism.

The evolution of the trouser, perhaps, is the most interesting. For many years the knickerbocks was the correct thing for afternoon wear on the gridiron, but the rage for silk bloomers spread fast last year. The most fashionable designers for next year have announced that a silk jacket will replace the rather cumbersome jersey of the present season, although a rough, pongee jacket will be worn at many places around the club or on the practice field.

Hostility Fad

There has come about a fad of late years for discarding hostility during the game. At first this was hailed as a dreaded incursion into the rights of the individual, but this thought has passed. It is now considered quite de trop for the well dressed halfback to appear without socks, and many of them appear extremely chic.

This custom sprang into prominence at the Florida and California resorts and spread with great rapidity. Some of the best designers for next year insist that when the athlete goes without hose, spats must be worn and it will be interesting to note the prevalence of this style in another season. White spats, of course, will be the thing, trimmed in the varsity colors.

Leather Chapeau Retainer

Milord's chapeau shows little change for next autumn. Leather, often perforated, still is the favorite material, with a soft lining of cotton or some such goods. But there is a wide latitude shown in the matter of trimmings. Some of the smartest shops are showing ear drops and pendants to be worn attached to milords' helmets.

The color motifs for next year abound in unusual shades and pastels. In my travels I have noted great variety. In Boston the strict New Englander still clings to crimson, while in Philadelphia read and blue seems the dominant shade. On my week in the hills of New Hampshire for a bit of winter sports I found green still as much in favor as ever. Brown was still popular in Providence and Newport, but blue was New Haven's choice.

Chic Trimmings Apparent

Farther west, where one expects vigor as well as chic trimmings, I discovered a deep shade of Maroon most becoming in many styles shown about Chicago. In the north-shore suburbs, Evans, particularly, the familiar pale lavender has given way to a deep purple. The smart motor folks in Detroit are wearing a dark blue, with fetching yellow borders.

Everywhere the tendency of young men is to appear "carefully careless" in their apparel, but I note with no little displeasure the frequency with which mud cleats are worn with evening attire, particularly in the middle west. This seems to me to be a step too far from the old and accepted tenets of good form.—Daily Nebraskan.

EXCHANGE NOTES

The youngest freshman at George Washington University is a girl just 13 years of age.

Fancy skating is an attraction at the University of Montreal. Many students are displaying great skill in this art.

Exports from the United States in August were $50,000,000 in excess of imports, giving the biggest favorable trade balance of the year to August.

Illinois' $10,000 rubber cover for the football field has proved successful not only in keeping the gridiron dry before the games, but in staving off the rain during the games. No matter how the weather has threatened at any game this fall, no rain has fallen while a game was being played. The Illini believe the rain-coat killed off the water jinx.

As a result of his second attempted suicide a student at the University of Illinois ended his life by a bullet shot through the head during the holidays. That he "had experienced all that life had to offer" was found in a note he left.

"What do we care if students' cars are not allowed on the campus?" asked 150 students at Ohio State university as they practice roller skating. By spring they will all be expert enough to come to school with great ease, it is predicted.

Why You Should Eat More Ice Cream

Doctors will tell you that ice cream made with good cream, fruit flavors, pure cane sugar, is high in food values.

We use the best materials in making our ice cream and then give them double purity protection, because we Pasteurize and Heathize our ice cream. These are the two best known protectors of purity in dairy products acknowledged susceptible to quick deterioration.

Heathization is the method of freezing ice cream in freezers from which the air has been expelled and replaced by a pure, sterile, clean atmosphere a hundred times purer than air. This insures super-purity and is an added reason why you should prefer our ice cream for home use, or for a refreshing treat.

Our ice cream is sold only through our duly appointed agencies. Insist that when your children buy ice cream they look for the Heathized sign.
