The "Scrub."

In the tumult and rejoicing over a victory, whether it be in football, baseball or the more serious games of life, there is one personage who is almost invariably overlooked, namely, the so-called "scrub." The white light of approval and commendation nearly always falls upon the hero of the hour, whose success would have been impossible without the aid of the toiler in the ranks.

Although the life of a successful football player is not without its hardships, it also has its rewards. The man who makes the team enjoys the pleasure of the trips, gains the applause of the multitude, and looks forward to receiving his letter at the end of the season.

The "scrub" has no such recompenses. He is unknown to the public, looks forward to no material gain for his efforts, and very often knows that he can never make the team. Nevertheless, he is out every day in his old faded suit doing all he can to help build up a good eleven to represent his Alma Mater.

All glory to the team, but let us not forget the lowly "scrub."

An Appreciation.

Transylvania College had a game scheduled with Wesleyan, to be played October 23, the date of the Kentucky-Sewanee game. Because of our game she kindly changed the date of her game with Wesleyan.

To avoid a conflict with our Purdue game she has again made an alteration in her schedule and will play Centre on Friday, November 12, instead of Saturday, November 13, as was originally intended.

The students of the University of Kentucky appreciate very highly this generous spirit manifested by our neighboring institution.

SQUIRREL FOOD

The Kentucky Colonel Says:
The dignity of a Chesterfield is as nothing, suh, when compared to the mannah in which a Domestic Science Freshman mixes a mess she fondly dreams will become biscuit, suh.

Pety in a New Role.
Lon Moore as landscape gardener at State University.—Luke McLuke.

The Strollers presented an excellent amateur night vaudeville last Friday. Tomorrow night the Patterson Literary Society will present one which will be even more humorous, because the performers will not realize how funny they are.

Cooking Hint.
Never put hair oil in chocolate fudge. Fudge is horrible enough without it.

"Down" With Them?
In spite of unfavorable conditions, nearly a dozen Senior mustachios are fighting valiantly for life. The one showing the greatest promise at the close of the year will receive a wash-rag to comb itself with.

In their write-ups of last Saturday's football game the Louisville Journals found thirteen excuses for the defeat of their pets. They left out the most important one, however. The State bunch was rude, and every time Louisville got in forty yards of their line our warriors took the ball away from them and carried it where it ought to go.

The Students Say:
If you study you are a grind.
If you don't you are a loafer.
If you go out for the team you are trying to "get by" on your athletic ability.
If you don't you haven't any college spirit.
If you rush the women you are "skirt mad."
If you let them alone you are a "tight-wad."
If you get good grades it is because you "stand in" with your "profs."
If you don't you are a bonehead.

Soldiers in the trenches were recently given various kinds of literature to devour before a big battle, in an effort to ascertain the effect of the different varieties of reading matter upon the soldiers' willingness to face death.

Possibly it fell to the lot of some of those death-defying followers of the Kaiser to read Freshman theme papers.

Yale won out in a chess contest with Brown University.
No injuries reported.

How's This For Luck?

New York, November 6.—A modern Job was released today from the Ludlow-Street Jail. He is Samuel B. Wellington, 73 years old, Vice President of the Bailey Gold Mining and Milling Company. His remarkable experience includes two marriages, a bigamy suit, divorce, two prison cells, modest wealth and a decline in fortune which now leaves him more than 200,000 in debt.

Wellington had been held for alleged refusal to pay alimony.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

This is a Deep One.

Gaby Deslys, the famous actress, has arrived in New York with 180 trunks.

Gaby is evidently preparing to take some "gym."

A Chicago specialist in eugenics says that "sincere flirting" has a high moral value.

How about "truthful lying" and "honest stealing?"

Dorothy Newell, an actress-suffragette, of New York, appears in public wearing an extreme low-cut effect with the slogan, "Votes for Women" painted upon her fair back.

A skin game which almost any man would fall for.

O-o-o-o-o

Out at Iowa State the other day all the lights in the gymnasium went out just as Evan Williams was commencing a concert. Not troubled by this he completed the program which lasted nearly two hours with only one small light in the entire room.

We'd like to bet that the stags all hated themselves.

FIVE YEARS AGO

(From the Files of The Idea.)

November 10, 1910.

The Wildcats defeat Tennessee at Knoxville, 10 to 0.

A number of students who attempt to "dead head" to Knoxville in the team's car are discovered and put off the train at Somerset, from which point they continue their journey, via fast freight.

Returns of the game are received by special wire in Chapel.

Dr. Tuttle seriously ill.

Work on the new Chemistry Building is rushed in order to have it ready for occupancy by the first of the year.

Co-eds to entertain with a dance at Patt. Hall Friday night.

Kentucky vs. St. Louis, at St. Louis next Saturday.

Clever students at Dartmouth have found a way to evade the recent ruling of the Interstate Commerce and are arranging for a "cattle special" to take the rooters to the Amherst game.

The Commission disappointed Pennsylvania students on the eve of their departure in box-cars for the Harvard game by saying that the transportation of human beings as live-stock was illegal. Dartmouth men, however, are going to ship one crated pig in each car, and the students will go along as "caretakers." Why not? Isn't a pig also a rooter? With apologies to the Grapher.—Daily Texan.

HERE AND THERE

(The Kernel exchanges with a number of the best college papers in the country. In order that the students may read them, the papers we receive are placed on one of the tables in the magazine section of the library. You will find them interesting reading.)

Tragedy in Three Acts.

Act I. Two matadors and a bull.
Act II. One matador and a bull.
Act III. Bull.

—Missouri Miner.

The Nebraska boys were much ruder than our men. I saw one of them push one of our men right in the face when he tried to grab him. None of our team did anything like that, I am positive.—Iowa State Student.

Liberal Arts.

Liberal arts is my course; I need not study.

It maketh me to lie down in my "hay." It restoreth my humor.

It leadeth me in the paths of ridicule for its namesake.

Yea, though I ride through the Valleys I have many troubles.

For my books are much heavy. Their weight and their words discomfort me;

It annoineth by brow with perspiration; my time runneth over;

I scorn other courses in the presence of mine enemies;

I tell funny jokes while "civil" men study.

Surely, if this thing followeth me all the days of my life,

I shall ride on the gravy forever.
—Exchange.

"Am I the first girl you ever kissed?"

"Well, I am not an expert, but I didn't think I did as poor a job as that. Let's try again."—Tiger.

He kissed her on the cheek,
It seemed a harmless frolic;

He's been laid up a week,
They say, with painters' colle.

—Frankfort (H. S.)

Football Fears.

"Oh, Tom," she said in greeting me,
In tones of great alarm,

"They said that in the game today,
You'd broken your right arm."

I calmed her tender, groundless fears
With vehemence and taste;

And just to prove the arm was sound
Slipped it around her waist.

So nestled close beside me,
She smiled sweetly in my face,

That's great," she said. "Not broken—
Not even out of place."

—Miss. College Magazine.

DO PURDUE!

SENIORS URGED TO GET PICTURES TAKEN

Spengler, Official Photographer, Offers Rate Until Thanksgiving

All Seniors are urged to go to Spengler's studio immediately and get their pictures taken for "The Kentuckian." The regular rate for pictures has been cut in half, and will continue such until Thanksgiving. After that date the old rate will go into effect, which will entail extra charge on all those who wait until then to get their pictures taken.

The annual staff is urging all Seniors to visit the photographer this week and the next and until the holiday rush begins. However, in addition to the assistance thus lent to the annual staff in getting their pictures taken early there is the financial difference, which is worth considerably.

One dollar is charged for the first sitting, and twenty-five cents for each additional print. Pictures selling at twelve dollars a dozen to regular customers will be sold to students at half that price. Mr. Spengler has never been able before to do the work for Seniors before Christmas, but has declared his willingness to do so now.

Get yours "snapped" early is the staff's request.

1916 FOOTBALL GAMES FOR S. U. ANNOUNCED

Games with Georgetown College and Centre College, with renewals of contracts with Mississippi A. and M. and Sewanee, games with Vanderbilt, Tennessee, Louisville and Cincinnati for the season of 1916 were decided on by the athletic committee of the University of Kentucky yesterday in a special session held yesterday afternoon.

The Sewanee game will be played on Stoll Field again next year. A letter was received yesterday by Dr. J. J. Tigert, director of athletics of the University of Kentucky, from the director at Sewanee, saying that he favored a renewal of the 1915 contract. It was decided also that negotiations should be opened immediately with Vanderbilt, which, it seems, will be successful.

In the event that the Wildcats play out of Lexington on Thanksgiving Day next year, it was announced yesterday, there will be no effort to secure a game for the Kittens on Stoll Field, as such a game might conflict with a date arranged by Transylvania to play on their own grounds.

The two-year contract between the Wildcats and Commodores for Thanksgiving Day, which provides also for games between Freshman teams from the two Universities, will probably be renewed with an omission of the latter provision in the contract.
