

Winners of Waggener Science Fair announced

Winners of the March 19 Waggener High School Science Fair were announced this week.

Over-all winners in the biology department were Carol McClure, first, and Debbie Loeb, second. Their entries were on noise pollution and its effects, and eutrophication, respectively.

In the physical science department, over-all winners were Robert Ballard, first, and Steve Lechson and Vic Crain, second. Ballard's entry was recording servomotor positions while Lechson and Crain jointly prepared an exhibit on Laser photocommunication.

Other first place winners were Ken Shaper, investigating the speed of sound; Mark Tasch, response of euglena to varying pH; Pam Moore, coffee acidities; Jeff Hull, halography using laser light; Tim Bartoo, electronic organ circuitry; Sheryl Glasscock and Carol Vardiman, biological support for continental drift; Julie Harrison, Sally Lukins and Mindy Belharz, electrochemistry, and Bob Garrett and Paul Graham, simple planetarium.

The event was sponsored by the St. Matthews Kiwanis Club and Waggener's science department and staff.

Judges were science teachers of Waggener, Seneca, Butler, Westport, Pleasure Ridge Park and Eastern High Schools. Mrs. Gertrude Weller, sponsor, announced the Regional Science Fair will be held at Jeffersonton High School April 11.

Preceding the fair, the sophomore class sponsored a chili supper in the small school cafeteria.

Added P.O. service promised for 19,000

Trips to the Post Office to pick up the mail could become unnecessary for some 19,000 Kentucky families in 109 counties under a major new postal service program expanding home delivery announced by the Post Office Department.

Persons living more than a quarter mile but less than a half mile from the small post offices affected who now have no city delivery will be eligible for the service. Under the old program they were not eligible for rural delivery if they lived less than a half mile from the post office.

KOSAIR TEMPLE, Louisville, played host to lodge dignitaries of various sections of Kentucky Saturday night as James Booher was honored at the annual Potentate Ball at Convention Center. The program included dancing from 9 until 1. Mr. and Mrs. Booher, left, are shown with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Swope. Swope was general chairman of the event.

IN LOUISVILLE

Postmaster general to speak April 1

Winton M. Blount, the 59th postmaster general of the U.S., will be the principal speaker at the annual membership banquet of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, April 1, in the Brown Hotel.

LeRoy M. Miles, of Lexington, president of the chamber, reported that the banquet will be part of the first-day activities of the annual Congress of Kentucky Business, a gathering of state business leaders.

The first day will be devoted to a program for the membership in the chamber and the second to annual meetings of other business organizations.

A Wednesday luncheon will honor winners in the annual Kentucky Chamber Star program, a movement conducted during the year to provide student-teacher achievement recognition. Winners in this region were William Marc Strull, a student at Atherton High School, and Dolly Gordon Sturman, a teacher.

UK president to speak

The principal speaker will be Dr. Otis W. Singletary, president of the University of Kentucky.

That afternoon, James M. Caldwell, station manager of WAVE and chairman of the Jefferson County Crime Commission, will moderate a panel program on "The Menace of Organized Crime to Business."

Members of the panel will be State Attorney General John C. Breckinridge; Louis Scalzo, deputy chief of the Organized Crime Program Division of the U.S. Department of Justice; Wayne Hopkins, of the crime prevention and control division of the Chamber of Commerce of the U.S., and George C. Burton, Louisville director of safety. The panel discussion will be at 2 pm.

Grubbs, Harper to give talk

The second days program will include a joint meeting of the Kentucky Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives and the Kentucky Industrial Development Council. This will be a breakfast-meeting at Stouffer's Louisville Inn at which Paul Grubbs, state commissioner of commerce, and Ken Harper, commissioner of public information, will speak.

Also on Thursday's program will be the annual Industry Appreciation Day luncheon to honor industry leaders by the Kentucky Department of Commerce and the Kentucky Chamber. This also will be at Stouffer's.

Garden club to meet

The next meeting of the Cardinal Garden Club will be held at 10 am Wednesday, April 1, at the home of Mrs. W. B. Winterbottom, 4420 Taylorsville Rd. The program will include a lesson on corsage making.

Gun deer season opens in November

A gun deer season of five days in all counties of Kentucky has been approved by the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission. The season will open Nov. 14 and continue through Nov. 28 with hunting being restricted to bucks with antler or spike visible above the hairline in all counties except three.

In these three, Barren, Edmonton and Hart, deer of either sex may be taken. Again the limit for the entire season, either gun or bow and arrow, is one deer. The archery season will be the entire months of October and December in all counties for either sex deer.
