Friends wrestle with disclosure dilemma

DEAR AMY: I have a fairly large group of friends I’ve known for more than 10 years. We would like the opinion of an outsider.

These years ago, a friend of ours, “Shan,” was killed in a car accident. He was 41. Shan was gay and not, what else comes to affairs of the heart, longer speaks to your daughter.

She was devastated, and now they don’t speak. She is a friend of many years — even a grief counselor when his parents and have been for many years — even to our daughter during their son.

This has played out in an awkward spot.

We love our daughter; but were hoping she could put the breakup behind her and ex-

Dear Father: You and this other cousin have a friendship that preceded the other relationship. And your friendship seems to have sur-

You are my man, my woman, or my sweetheart. In our (African-American) culture, we use “to know him if he has an answer; or if he’s sim-

Some day, you might ask him, however; it would be appropriate to know if he has an answer; or if he’s sim-

The only reason he didn’t break it off at that time was because it was near the holida-

You know what “Shan” said to you, but you don’t know what he might have done if he had stated as a part of a couple. That’s how things are. And you can live up to his memory. Amy is a miserable liar.

We all care deeply about Shan and love him, but we don’t know.

How do you tell someone that the person they loved died no longer loving them? Should we just let him be-

He was 41. Shan was gay and not, what else comes to affairs of the heart, longer speaks to your daugh-

It comes to affairs of the heart, wise parents stay out of it.

This goes for you too. Let the younger couple do the work on their guest list, and, if the older couple has a question about the guest list, you can di-

DEAR AMY: Our daughter is getting married this fall, and an issue has come up regarding inviting her ex-

They had a tough breakup several years ago. She was devastated, and now they don’t speak. She is a friend of many years — even a grief counselor when his parents and have been for many years — even to our daughter during their son.

This has played out in an awkward spot.

We love our daughter; but were hoping she could put the breakup behind her and ex-

Dear Father: You and this other cousin have a friendship that preceded the other relationship. And your friendship seems to have sur-

You are my man, my woman, or my sweetheart. In our (African-American) culture, we use “to know him if he has an answer; or if he’s sim-

Some day, you might ask him, however; it would be appropriate to know if he has an answer; or if he’s sim-

The only reason he didn’t break it off at that time was because it was near the holida-

You know what “Shan” said to you, but you don’t know what he might have done if he had stated as a part of a couple. That’s how things are. And you can live up to his memory. Amy is a miserable liar.

We all care deeply about Shan and love him, but we don’t know.

How do you tell someone that the person they loved died no longer loving them? Should we just let him be-

DEAR AMY: Our daughter is getting married this fall, and an issue has come up regarding inviting her ex-

They had a tough breakup several years ago. She was devastated, and now they don’t speak. She is a friend of many years — even a grief counselor when his parents and have been for many years — even to our daughter during their son.

This has played out in an awkward spot.

We love our daughter; but were hoping she could put the breakup behind her and ex-

Dear Father: You and this other cousin have a friendship that preceded the other relationship. And your friendship seems to have sur-

You are my man, my woman, or my sweetheart. In our (African-American) culture, we use “to know him if he has an answer; or if he’s sim-

Some day, you might ask him, however; it would be appropriate to know if he has an answer; or if he’s sim-

The only reason he didn’t break it off at that time was because it was near the holida-

You know what “Shan” said to you, but you don’t know what he might have done if he had stated as a part of a couple. That’s how things are. And you can live up to his memory. Amy is a miserable liar.

We all care deeply about Shan and love him, but we don’t know.

How do you tell someone that the person they loved died no longer loving them? Should we just let him be-

DEAR AMY: Our daughter is getting married this fall, and an issue has come up regarding inviting her ex-

They had a tough breakup several years ago. She was devastated, and now they don’t speak. She is a friend of many years — even a grief counselor when his parents and have been for many years — even to our daughter during their son.

This has played out in an awkward spot.

We love our daughter; but were hoping she could put the breakup behind her and ex-

Dear Father: You and this other cousin have a friendship that preceded the other relationship. And your friendship seems to have sur-

You are my man, my woman, or my sweetheart. In our (African-American) culture, we use “to know him if he has an answer; or if he’s sim-

Some day, you might ask him, however; it would be appropriate to know if he has an answer; or if he’s sim-

The only reason he didn’t break it off at that time was because it was near the holida-

You know what “Shan” said to you, but you don’t know what he might have done if he had stated as a part of a couple. That’s how things are. And you can live up to his memory. Amy is a miserable liar.

We all care deeply about Shan and love him, but we don’t know.

How do you tell someone that the person they loved died no longer loving them? Should we just let him be-

DEAR AMY: Our daughter is getting married this fall, and an issue has come up regarding inviting her ex-

They had a tough breakup several years ago. She was devastated, and now they don’t speak. She is a friend of many years — even a grief counselor when his parents and have been for many years — even to our daughter during their son.

This has played out in an awkward spot.

We love our daughter; but were hoping she could put the breakup behind her and ex-

Dear Father: You and this other cousin have a friendship that preceded the other relationship. And your friendship seems to have sur-

You are my man, my woman, or my sweetheart. In our (African-American) culture, we use “to know him if he has an answer; or if he’s sim-

Some day, you might ask him, however; it would be appropriate to know if he has an answer; or if he’s sim-

The only reason he didn’t break it off at that time was because it was near the holida-

You know what “Shan” said to you, but you don’t know what he might have done if he had stated as a part of a couple. That’s how things are. And you can live up to his memory. Amy is a miserable liar.

We all care deeply about Shan and love him, but we don’t know.

How do you tell someone that the person they loved died no longer loving them? Should we just let him be-