Miss Peden to receive Ursuline College award for community service

Miss Katherine Peden, Kentucky commissioner of commerce, will be presented the third annual Ursuline College Community Award at Founder's Day Convocation tonight. The Founder's Day ceremony, celebrating Ursuline's 26th anniversary as a four-year liberal arts college for women, will be at 9:30 p.m. in the college auditorium, 3105 Lexington Road.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Clarence P. Jackson, prominent Louisville churchwoman. The Ursuline College Community Award is presented annually "to some man or woman who has rendered outstanding service to the local or state community."

Miss Peden, the only woman commerce commissioner in the 50 states, will be the second woman to receive the Community Award. Last year's recipient was Dr. Stella

A. Edwards, director of the division of special education of the Kentucky department of education. Dr. George Brodschi, director of the International Center at the University of Louisville, was presented the first award in 1963.

Gary Arnold promoted to management

Gary A. Arnold, 502 Marquette Dr., an agent with Equitable Life Insurance Society of the United States, has been appointed assistant district manager in the Louisville District managed by Edward J. Schnorr.

The new appointment is in addition to Mr. Arnold's regular job of selling insurance. Mr. Arnold, 26, is a graduate of Trinity High School and of the University of Louisville, and is presently enrolled in the CLU at the U of L.

He is presently leading agent in volume sales for the Jack Kinder Jr., Agency and is well on his way to production of a million dollars worth of life insurance sold this year.

He and his wife Phyllis have two sons, Mark age 2, and Mike, 1.

TREASURER SEARCHER: Pointing the way towards the $60 million prize, Captain Henry and his wife, Pat, aboard their tug boat in Toronto Harbor are confident they'll again float the Andrea Doria sunk in the Atlantic in 1956 off Nantucket Island. Italian ship was in collision with the Swedish freighter, Stockholm.

Detroit-born sea captain hopes to raise Andrea Doria

By Frank Ayer

Toronto, Ontario -- Like most mortals, Captain Don Henry hopes to raise a little money -- $60 million in fact, give or take a doubloon.

In his case though, he has definite plans for coming up with this staggering sum of petty cash.

Henry merely plans to refloat the Italian luxury liner, Andrea Doria, sunk in the Atlantic in July, 1956, after a collision with the Swedish ship, Stockholm.

This Captain Audacious is prepared to gamble an outlay of up to $4 million on the estimated $60 million-prize, attractive odds in most any game of chance.

A Detroit-born seaman who now calls Toronto his home, the 49-year-old master diver and sea captain will guide his tug out of Toronto harbor this month.

He and his wife Pat have spent most of their time freeloancing on the West Indies run.

Henry expects to have the Andrea Doria floating like a champagne cork after pumping the sunken hull full of white cellular plastic pellets, each about an inch in diameter.

Built like a fullback, six-foot, 248-pound Don Henry knows whereof he dreams.

"Five days after she went down, I made a dive to see how she looked. She's on her side in 225 feet of water off Nantucket Island. I've made more than 50 exploratory dives there since."

Henry says the 29,760-ton Doria's cargo includes priceless Michaelangelo and Rembrandt paintings, an Italian bank shipment of gold, industrial diamonds, $1,000,000 in cash, negotiable bonds and jewelry, a $200,000 Chrysler experimental car by Gila, a Rolls Royce, eight other cars and 1,780 bags of mail for the U. S.

Captain Henry figures he won't even have to plug the gaping hole in the ship's starboard side to raise it, because that's the side she's lying on.

"She'll appear at the surface either bottom up or on her side and we'll right her there before towing her into port," he predicted. "I can only afford to make one try and this is it."

He said a similar salvage method using liquid plastic has been successful but the pellets are more buoyant and cheaper.

The captain said he has worked on many salvage jobs for other firms and raised a few barges.

To finance his venture, he formed the Andrea Doria Salvage Corporation. He's president and there are three other partners.

He bought his tug, Good News, from Captain D. G. Bawlinheimer, of Niagara Falls, who almost lost it when it went adrift in the Niagara River ice fields two years ago.

Westport Honor Society to choose calendar girl

By Sandy Casabella

Westport's National Honor Society will present the candidates competing for calendar girl, at a pageant Nov. 24, in the school gym.

Thirteen calendar girls will be chosen, from the group representing each school club, according to student votes. The girl receiving the greatest number of votes will be N.H.S. cover girl with the remaining 12 representing each month.

Although last year was the first time Westport's N.H.S. has attempted such a calendar, the results proved to be a great success.

The girls wore formal and were presented individually before the school with escorts. Former senior Sarah Barlow, was elected as last year's cover girl.

The calendar costs $1 and includes student birthdays, patrons of the senior play, and all school and sports activities.

Mrs. Barbara Priddy and Miss Jean Fisher, sponsors of the National Honor Society comments, "The calendar will be more practical in that it will be small enough to fit in the students' binder," and adds, "there is a strong possibility of color being added.

Club Activities

Many clubs have been busy the past week planning activities and electing new officers. Beta Club officers elected Fare Buster Slesser, president; Terri McMahon, vice president; Mark Graves, secretary; and Art McLean, treasurer. Sponsors include Mrs. Helen Sher, and Miss Pamela Butler.

The Pep Club held its first meeting of the year with officers including Randy Brooks, president; Terri McMahon, vice president; Kay Barker, secretary; Gary Wicke, treasurer; and Jack Potts, sergeant-at-arms.

The French Club, sponsored by Miss Pamela Butler, elected Winnie Riggs, president; Barbara Borowitz, vice president; Leslie Bright, secretary; and Shirley Gray Spalding, program chairman.

Westport's Debate Club, sponsored by Charles Patterson, includes varsity and J.V. teams which meet every Monday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons.

Sacred Heart French Club elects 1965-66 officers

By Nancy Walter

The French Club of Sacred Heart Academy has elected officers for the '65-'66 year. President Margaret Beckowicz presided over the election of vice-president, Dede Cecil; secretary, Patti Moore; and treasurer, Nancy Walter. Senior Sally Schlidt was elected program chairman last year.

Miss Marilyn Schuler is moderator of SHA's Cercle Francais.

Church women plan Italian style bazaar

The Churchwomen of St. Francis in the Fields Episcopal Church will have their annual bazaar Oct. 26 beginning at 10:30 a.m. The bazaar, entitled "Florentine Festa," will follow an Italian theme.

Several members of the church are touring Italy this month and hope to bring back some small, attractive objects for an Italian table.

There will also be Christmas ornaments, toys, toy bags, plants, handknit items, white elephants and antiques, and preserves, donated by members of the congregation on display.

The luncheon will feature Chicken Trazzini served from 12 noon to 1:30 p.m.

Valkyries and Junior Valkyries at Sacred Heart plunged into a full week of hockey games Tuesday, Oct. 12. That day the JV's whizzed past Mercy with a decisive 11-0 score.

Wednesday, Oct. 13, the Varsity was equally successful against the Rockets from Assumption High School. Final tally was 1-0.

The second game of the week for the JV's, previously postponed because of bad weather, was held Thursday, Oct. 14 against Louisville Collegiate. Despite the rain that day also, SHA fought hard and long only to be edged out by Collegiate 2-0.
