

Sunday Jan 17.

A very pleasant day. Quite warm. Sun went down in clouds with "cooler" "showers" indicated. Had 25 this am. in my class. I had a good time on the lesson John 3:1-21 Heavens answer. 1. 1- to the hungry cry of men. The world is hungry - contending. Suffering, divided, estranged, deeply Bury sinning - and yet wanting to know and find a God in peace - It is the cry the globe round "where shall we find God?" "How may we be at peace with Him?" "Oh where shall rest be found?" This Chap. furnishes the "qual" answer - Dr Bryan gave a good sermon on Christian Citizenship; a very wholesome and helpful setting forth of the Bible view for Paul Parker, Mrs P. this morn. I was feeding <sup>5: P.M.</sup> have just gone taking Mary with them back to them. They had a good success in the Sunday. Mary wanted to get "libbit" a little coal and Mrs P. thought it would be worth for her to go. The coals give her a real up. and I had a Bus ticket back so she could go at no expense & I could give her coal.

As for man his days are as grass as a flower of the field so he flourisheth, 15th 10th I had to feel in the G of preceding this which accounts for the break in the Scrip's passage. Today the wind has been down from the N - and has grown colder all day. Quite raw & bright. A gorgeous blue sky has been over most of the day. I have walked up and down and gazed and revelled in its delight, then and a wisp of hair would be whisked across, then again all was blue. Or a skin of white would hang round. or a patch of cloud would float up. But it was Gods blue - heavy all the same and was as gloriously sweet. I thank God for an opened eye to see and an ear to listen. "The heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament showeth His handy work." - and such for aching!! No words, no sound. Yet this was the cry. "The hand that made us is divine." - The afternoon was not much to night; - Got Bramwell both home today. Lillian has had it - I am dipping into it again. Getting another book at that mighty man, too for this. Paul Wm B. - finally used of God. What a party to our sinners! B. says that was his chief chor activity!!
