Dental Health for Children
Here are a few fun facts about dental health:
- Every year, kids in North America spend close to half a billion dollars on chewing gum.
- Kids laugh around 400 times a day.
- Fifty percent of parents consider the smile the first feature they notice.
- With these statistics, it’s important to promote healthy dental habits in our children. Healthy teeth are an important part of a healthy body. Encourage your child to brush two or three times a day, twice a day with a toothpaste that contains fluoride will help strengthen the teeth. Make appointments for your child in the fall list every six months for a cleaning and oral exam. Brush and floss that are necessary for the teeth, such as apples, carrots, and milk. Limit candy, pretzels, pop, and chips, which can erode on the tooth surface. Children are learning about healthy dental habits in the elementary schools this month and next, but children also learn from their parents, so parents need to adapt these healthy dental habits as well.
