

With face-framing reach, a co-ed dabs and molds the final clay at the top of her figure study sculpture. This type of elongated form was a popular format in creative sculpture this year.

Stepping back for a better perspective of her painting, this student artist also applies a fine finishing stroke (below).

