Childs Home

The Kentucky Society For Crippled Children

Since 1933 the Society has been at work in Kentucky. It has sponsored legislation creating the Kentucky Crippled Children Commission, which it serves in advisory capacity. It recommends to the Governor a list from which members of the Commission are appointed.

Some 46,000 members make up the Society. They participate in the annual major fundraising campaign, in which every member of the public can be a part of.

In its regular meetings, the Society discusses the problems of crippled children.

The Society is always active in the work of the Kentucky Crippled Children Commission and the Governor.

The Society's Board of Directors meets on a regular basis.

The Society's many members make up the Society. They participate in the annual major fundraising campaign, in which every member of the public can be a part of.

In its regular meetings, the Society discusses the problems of crippled children. The Society is always active in the work of the Kentucky Crippled Children Commission and the Governor.

The Society's Board of Directors meets on a regular basis.