A 6-year-old boy has died after he was hit by a sport utility vehicle while riding his bike on Excel Court late Saturday, according to Coroner Will Harrod.

Charles Semones, who was not wearing a helmet, died from blunt force trauma to the head after the accident, Harrod said. Semones was hit in the Silver Lake subdivision around 6 p.m. Saturday, and the driver, a woman whose name has not been released, was inconsolable at the scene.

Semones's bike, shoes, a small pool of blood and emergency medical equipment were in the street as police worked the scene. The maroon Jeep that hit him was parked nearby.

His parents were notified and with their son at Frankfort Regional Medical Center around 6:30 p.m., police said. Semones was pronounced dead at 7:09 p.m., Harrod said.

Paramedics performed CPR on the boy before he was taken to the hospital, but other details of the accident were unavailable.

"He was on his bike and he was hit by a car here on Excel Court, and that's really

Man gets 60 days for Bette Winn slaying

But he'll be out in 11

BY KAYLEIGH ZYSKOWSKI
KZYSKOWSKI@STATE-JOURNAL.COM

The man who killed Bette Winn in 2009 will be on the streets in about 11 days.

Joe Gregory Wilson, who pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of second-degree manslaughter Feb. 28 with Winn's family in support of the move, was sentenced Friday to five years.

However, that will be probated after Wilson has served 60 days, and he's already served 46 days, leav-

UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY: NATIONAL CHAMPIONS

Huge crowd catches title train

Coach Cal touts trophy across state

BY KATHERAN WASSON

Friday was a day of long lunch breaks as a few thousand people gathered on the Old Capitol lawn to welcome Kentucky Wildcats coach John Calipari to Frankfort.

Fresh off his first national basketball championship, Calipari rode into town around noon waving from the back of a bright red train car as part of a statewide tour.

The crowd cheered as he held the trophy aloft, the UK fight song booming in the background from the Franklin County High School band.

"It's like a 1948 political tour," Calipari mused as he took the stage, thanking Rick Corman, founder of the R.J. Corman Railroad Group in Nicholasville, for the ride through Central Kentucky.

People began arriving more than an hour early for a spot, some bringing lawn chairs for the wait. The fans ranged from infants to the elderly - there were even a few dogs sporting UK blue leashes.

Afterward on Twitter, Cali-

The University of Kentucky men's basketball coach John Calipari waves to the crowd as he makes his way up the sidewalk of the Old Capitol.

pari estimated the crowd at between 4,000 and 5,000 and made a couple of Frankfort-related shout-outs.

"Special thanks to the Franklin County Band for playing in Frankfort, and thanks to Buddy's Pizza for the pizza. It was delicious," he said.

After speaking a bit about his championship team, Calipari took photos with the fans as they filed through in groups of 20.

Judge revokes alleged rapist's probation

BY KAYLEIGH ZYSKOWSKI
KZYSKOWSKI@STATE-JOURNAL.COM

A Frankfort man - accused of raping an 8-year-old girl - will stay in jail after a judge revoked his probation from a 2008 offense stemming from a different case involving a female child.

Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Dana Todd said in court on April 6 that 40-year-old William "Eddie" Hafley admitted to his probation officer that he had unsupervised contact with at least one juvenile, which is against his probation agreement from the 2008 charges.

Franklin Circuit Judge Phillip Shepherd said Friday at a hearing that the rationale to revoke Hafley's probation did not involve the
