I struggled along some in Jones. Credwell read the Ala. B., - Francis came and read it for me - Nell came for a few moments - I saw Mrs Allison at dinner She was very cordial - Said she wanted Nell to have her house - I thanked her and told her that she & Mr A. had had some kind of an understanding about both houses - That I couldn't tell anything - The Ala. Bop. Edit. orial makes several comments on the doings of our Gov. One on killing the Frigs in order to keep up the price of Pork - and the Packer said "It couldn't be right" I Say on flowing up cotton the same cry - "more stores & children are suffering for food - for clothes - What can ever could be given for keeping up the price - then people can't buy now - What they It distressed me beyond measure - The Gov. has already turned loose Boer on us - that means heart & ruin to the poor - now put up prices, then what next? Liquor is now in full swing - "Lutold Calamity is on us - We finished Jones' Book. It left an awful fired talk some how - We didn't discuss it Mortie was tired, and I was really ashamed to have her come. Bless her sweet life she is so genuine true & sweet -
