CASE 113

... By ...
Emile Gaboriau

"Escaping almost certain death, Gaston, who before leaving the chateau had placed the signal for Valentine in his window, reached La Verberie and had an interview with his beloved. She informed him that she would soon become a mother. Before parting he left with her the jewels given him by his father, then fled the country, going to South America. That night the old marquis died, Louis, assuming that his elder brother had been drowned, took the title and the estate. He left Clameran immediately and began a life full of ignominy.

"Valentine confessed her condition to her mother, who took her to England, where she provided for her daughter's secret accouchement under the care of a physician and a maid, Mibonne. A son was born, which the countess immediately sent away to be adopted by a farmer. Subsequently Mme. de la Verberie persuaded her daughter to attempt to forget the past, to consider it buried in oblivion and to marry. A young engineer, M. Andre Fauvel, spent some time at Beaucaire, where they lived, and fell in love with Valentine, who, urged by her mother, accepted his attentions and finally married him. M. Fauvel afterward became the famous Paris banker. The countess died in 1850.

"Louis de Clameran, after an absence from home of eighteen years, returned, and from Mibonne, the maid who had been with Valentine at the time of her confinement, learned that his brother had not been drowned, that Valentine had had a son by Gaston and that she had subsequently married M. Fauvel. Impoverished by his excesses and unable to find a living honestly, Louis determined to use this information for the purpose of extorting money from Mme. Fauvel. Going to Paris, he called upon her and gave her to understand that he knew of her past. In order to better serve his purpose he told her that her son by Gaston was living, that he had been brought up in London, that his father had been there and found him, that Gaston had died in poverty and had asked him (Louis) to apply to her for means for the maintenance of their son Raoul. Mme. Fauvel at once gave Louis the jewels Gaston had left with her at their last interview to be used for Raoul. Louis, soon introduced a young man to her who personated her son and received from her large sums, which the two villains divided. All this Mme. Fauvel kept a secret from her husband. Finally Clameran, in order to facilitate his plans, demanded that she receive Raoul into her house. Mme. Fauvel had a cousin living at St. Remy of the name of Lagors, and Clameran, partly by persuasion, partly by intimidation, induced Mme. Fauvel to announce her supposed son as her nephew, Raoul de Lagors. This was done, and Raoul, having constant access to Mme. Fauvel, soon extorted a small fortune, which he squandered.

"Louis de Clameran now conceived the idea of marrying Madeleine, with whom he had fallen violently in love. To force her to break with Prosper he used the power he possessed over Mme. Fauvel. Madeleine discovered her aunt's situation and in order to avert a catastrophe consented to give up Prosper, whom she loved, and marry Clameran, whom she detested. Breaking her engagement with Prosper, she secured his promise to take upon himself the sole responsibility of the rupture.

"Meanwhile Gaston had made a fortune in South America and returned to France. To still the memory of his youthful misfortunes he resolved to engage in business and bought an iron mill at Oloron. Louis, hearing of his arrival, went to Oloron and greeted him with every pretense of affection. Louis took up his quarters with his brother, who soon sickened and died under very suspicious circumstances, leaving his fortune to Louis.

"Louis now turned his attention to forcing Madeleine to marry him. He agreed to settle a large income upon Raoul if he would extort money from Mme. Fauvel in sufficient quantity to embarrass her. Raoul consented and lived recklessly on the means furnished by the woman who supposed she was his mother. Finally, having no more to give him, she was persuaded to surrender her diamonds, a present from her husband on the day he became worth a million. When Mme. Fauvel's jewels were gone, Madeleine's were given up. All were pawned by Raoul.

"Louis de Clameran was not satisfied to marry Madeleine while her heart was given to another. He determined to ruin Prosper, that she might lose her respect and her love for him. One night at a supper at which Raoul and Prosper were present Raoul heard Prosper, under the influence of wine, name the word (Gipsy) that would unlock the safe in M. Fauvel's bank. This he communicated to Clameran, also telling him that when M. Fauvel went out he always left the key to the safe in the drawer of his secretary in his chamber.

STILL RISING

And the Weather is Not Calculated to Stop it.

Much Hay and Corn Reported Lost by the Flood Above Here.

The river is still rising and the present weather may start all the streams to pouring more water into the Ohio, Tennessee and Cumberland. River men say they have more water now than they want, and the situation is not very encouraging. The Ohio is full of drift, and is higher than it has been in nearly a year.

The crew on the Joe Fowler, which arrived last evening from Evansville, reports that much hay and corn has been lost up the river at various landings. Most of it was on the banks ready for shipment when the river came up and carried the hay away, and ruined the corn. It is not known how much in this way has been lost, but it may amount to several thousand dollars. There is scarcely a landing that has not suffered to some extent.

The rivers are getting so high that boats can not make some of the smaller landings, and this makes it almost as hard on the steamboat men as low water.

SAID HE WAS HELD UP.

Frank Wilson, a young sawmill man from Carlisle county, last night reported to Lieut. Moore that near Second and Clark streets he was accosted by a white man and mulatto, who asked him what he was doing. He replied that it was none of their business and they then pretended to be police officers and the white man displayed a club and the negro struck him with a pair of knucks. He proved a tartar, however, and by nighting succeeded in getting away before they could get his money.

HE FOUND A CURE.

R. H. Foster, 318 South Second street, Salt Lake City, writes: "I have been bothered with dyspepsia or indigestion for 21 years, have tried many doctors without relief, but I have found a cure in Herbine. I recommend it to all my friends who are afflicted that way, and it is curing them too." 50c at DuBois and Co.'s.

THE THORN OUT OUT.

Dr. H. Heggis was called out on the Mayfield road to Mr. Gottlieb Beyer's place this morning to perform a slight operation on Mr. Beyer's left foot. Tuesday a thorn was accidentally run into the foot and Mr. Beyer was unable to get it out. Dr. Heggis found it necessary to cut it out, and it proved to be over half an inch long.

PEPSIN SYRUP CO.
Monticello, Ill.

Dr. Caldwell's (Laxative) Syrup Pepsin

My people have a great dislike to patent medicines, for as a rule we have found them worthless, but your Syrup Pepsin is a notable exception. It cured me in three weeks, and we have used it at home until it has become a general family medicine. It is very pleasant and easy to take, and it not only relieves but effects a permanent cure. I give this testimonial freely, being grateful for the help I have obtained.

Very truly yours,
