While national attention is focused on America's preparations for defense and the problem peculiar to modern mechanized warfare, a graphic demonstration of the manner in which industry is adapting to its forces with those of the United States Army is evident at Little Falls, Minn., headquarters of the most gigantic peace-time military maneuvers in the history of the country.

As a recognized part of the camp set-up work, which brings 9,000 U. S. Army troops to conduct large-scale training maneuvers between August 5 and August 28, the Chevrolet Motor Division, through one of its sales agencies, the Motor Co. of Minneapolis, and St. Cloud, Minn., has established and is operating a complete parts and service warehouse.

Here at this motor head-quarters, three service representative branches of the Chevrolet Company are on a 24-hour duty, on call to handle any emergency that might arise. In addition, the 1,180 pieces of Chevrolet transport equipment in use during the maneuvers covers a stock of Chevrolet parts and accessories for repair or replacement, with a total value in excess of $10,000 is maintained at the first service head-quarters.

Of the total of 1,500 pieces of mechanized equipment, which record number of trucks will use in the Army's greater season, more than one-third are Chevrolets. They include five-passenger sedans for use by officers and in transportation duty 6-passenger recreation-cars; half-ton pick-ups for all-purposes, 1-2 ton cargo trucks and 1-2 bus and trailers. In addition, these 1,500 trucks have been set up at mobile repair shops and traveling warehouses, to follow the mechanized troops as they advance in the swarm in the same way the Ernestyrn Franklin, a 90 foot service vessel, serves the duration of the "Camp-" or "Chevrolet" training area. The main facility is the parts and service warehouse, located at the center of the mobile repair shops.

Contracts for the service of these services units as well as for the combat transport trucks will be provided by additional Chevrolet mobile equipment, which transports the fuel in 10-gal. containers. Thus complete insurance against breakdowns or delay is furnished.

Operations during the month-long warfare will simulate as nearly as possible actual combat situations, Army officers have stated. The mobile equipment will be driven across open terrain, will ford streams if necessary, and will employ bridges built by engineering detachments which require, even though the involved troops are in actual war-time situations.

More than 600,000 acres of land have been leased by the government for maneuvers. Every camp building in Little Falls, the area of the "Camp," is set up as a regular stationary service camp, and there are also many other such service camps set up in the country.

The mobile equipment, which is the result of the work of the Engineers, is being shipped to the Federal camps, where it will be used.

It is a regimental plan to provide for these service units and for the blind and not fully manualizing in this State.

The hold which Eddie A. Guest has on the common man is an mystery, according to his Detroit Free Press, who "when there's only one Eddie Guest, not two, and that is four. He is Eddie Guest to himself and to every one of his closest and most important friends, and he is Eddie Guest to all the world." Bingay writes in the current issue of "Chevrolet Magazine."

"Eddie is always true to himself. When he writes a poem on Mother's Day he doesn't just 'dash off some fluff to the old lady who is the mother of the man who has ever loved a mother'. His poems are written even before they are written. He remembers that he has lived with 24 hours a day and 7 days a week for the year is myself. And I never want to be seen in any company I keep. So try to do that which is right even though it may always feel comfortable with my feet on the ground."
