ARMISTICE DAY EXERCISES

Speech Delivered by Prof. H. H. Harris At Methodist Church Here In Honor of The Occasion

THE THEME OF THE ADDRESS IS "PEACE"

It was with renewed hope that the news of the signing of the Armistice was received by all. We have an end to our years of trial and sacrifice. The dead will be remembered. There will be no more fighting.

Peace comes to all the earth. The world has been saved. We have fought long and hard to achieve peace, and it is at last here. The people of the world can now live in peace.

We have paid a great price for peace, but it was worth it. The sacrifices of our soldiers and citizens have been enormous. But peace is worth it.

The ideal condition of home, school, church and state is the condition of peace. In the words of one of our greatest leaders, "Peace is the common weal of mankind."
