

Miss Haydon lived in Eminence where her brother-in-law was a successful Homeopathic physician. She studied medicine, graduated in pharmacy, and in 1892 opened a homeopathic drug store in Eminence. Three years later she moved to Louisville and established Haydon's Homeopathic Pharmacy, of which she continues as proprietor. In addition to the regulation medicines Miss Haydon has placed on the market a number of her own compounds which are known as Haydon's Remedies.

CRITICAL ESTIMATES

The History of Kentucky Biographical says: "In 1895 Miss Haydon came to Louisville, here opened a drug establishment in 1897 and through the intervening period of three decades has operated one of the finest homeopathic pharmacies in this part of the country. She is a registered pharmacist whose remedies have a national reputation and are sold in all parts of the United States through the recommendation of satisfied customers."

BIBLIOGRAPHY

SOURCE MATERIAL:

Who's Who in Louisville, 1926
History of Kentucky Biographical, vol.4

W. S.

* * * * *

JANE ALBINA HEARIN
(Mrs. Cordis E. Hearin)
b. May 4, 1884

Jane Albina Campbell was born in Dixon, Kentucky, the daughter of Samuel and Paulina (Wide) Campbell. She attended the Dixon High School and studied music during her attendance and after graduation. She was married to Cordis E. Hearin of Clay, Kentucky, on June 15, 1904. Mrs. Hearin is a Baptist and a Democrat. Her present business address is 104 North Main Street, Clay, Kentucky.

For a number of years after her marriage Mrs. Hearin taught music, later entering the banking business when her husband needed assistance in organizing the Farmer's National Bank of Clay. She served as bookkeeper and assistant cashier for fourteen years. Since 1926 she has been active vice president and director.