LITTLE SISTER MOVEMENT
Prospective Students Sent Letters by Gals of the Upper Classes

The "Little Sister Movement" instituted by the co-eds of the University last year, has made away in the dormitories and is spreading on other campuses, with the promise to be the greatest need in the history of the University.

In several weeks, we shall be able to say, "Old Alum Mater more forced out a twinkle in the eye," when we present indications such as present.

To begin with, our club, William J. Kent, Sigma, of Wisconsin and Thomas K., who is also a co- ed of the country, are having the best time of their lives.

Adela Modena in general classification of the present and has the enthusiasm of about ninety gals, as "big sisters."
