A Real Blessing to Mothers.

Dr. M. W. V. Evans, of Evansville, Indiana, has discovered what he calls the "Langur Bitter," a medicine which, after long experimentation, he believes will prove of the greatest benefit to women suffering from heartburn, indigestion, etc.

The secret of its operation is the powdery nature of its composition, which liquefies in the stomach, forming a mellow fluid, which, in a short time, is absorbed through the walls of the stomach, and enters the blood stream, circulating through the system. It has been found that the heartburn, indigestion, flatulence, etc., are overcome, and the digestive system is restored to its proper condition.

The medicine may be administered by the mouth, using a small quantity of water, or by the nasal syringe.

The medicine is manufactured by the Langur Bitter Company, Evansville, Indiana, and is distributed by agents throughout the United States.
