The Angels of His Presence

One of the hopeful and encouraging signs of the times is this universal interest in religion. There is no doubt that an increasing number of people are coming to know and trust in the God of Heaven and Earth. They are seeking for something in the midst of confusion which will replace distrust and despair with confidence and reasonable assurance of results. Nearly two thousand years ago, Jesus said, "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no one cometh unto the Father, but by Me." (John 14:6)

When Jesus said "spiritual things," He did not mean angels. The act of discerning the presence of God's spirit is not an easy matter. It is a matter of faith, of trust, of confidence, and trust in faith. We need not fear the object of our efforts, but we must keep our faith and keep the faith of others.

When you hear the word "an angel," try to think of the angel as a force of spiritual power, a force that is of the very essence of God. God is the source of all good. All our efforts should be to seek and find those who have confidence in God and His ways.

When you hear someone say "we feel the presence of angels," do not be surprised. People have confidence in God and His ways, and they seek to know the angels who are with them.

When you look at the sky and see the stars, remember that these stars are a reminder of the presence of angels. They are a reminder of the presence of angels, and they are a reminder of the presence of God.

When you are in need, and feel the presence of angels, do not be surprised. They are with you, and they are with you always.

When you are in need, and feel the presence of angels, do not be surprised. They are with you, and they are with you always.
