

Comparatively few original ideas are ever invented by the student body of this institution. Instead of exerting initiative and originality by "starting" things we are content to passively await the time when we can endorse and approve the ideas that have been promulgated and developed on other campuses. However, the modern epoch of radio and television enables us to acquire first-hand information of the events of the entire college world. Because of this revision of communication it took Kentucky only about a quarter of a century to learn that in almost all large colleges and universities there is an annual event which functions under the nomenclature of the "Junior Prom."

As a result of this bit of information that has trickled into the Blue Grass State, the first Junior Prom of the University will be initiated tonight by such a colorful spectacle of court splendor that is expected to cause Louis XIV to do a somersault in his 1715 model "wooden overcoat." The entire student body will pay homage and fealty to a pretty "Queen" who will be "crowned" ere the moon passeth. Just who will officiate at the coronation has not been made public, but it is definitely certain that loyal subjects will emanate from the four corners of her kingdom with the fond hopes and expectations that Her Highness will descend from her lofty throne and dip her royal socks in their coffee—which is an ancient Bulgarian custom.

The following is an excerpt from the will of a rich jeweler which has recently been probated in New York state:

1. To my son, I leave the pleasure of earning a living. For 35 years he has thought that the pleasure was mine. He was mistaken.

2. To my daughter, I leave $100,000. She will need it. The only good piece of business her husband ever did was to marry her.

3. To my valet, I leave the clothes that he has been stealing from me regularly for the past ten years. Also my fur coat that he wore last winter while I was in Palm Beach.

4. To my chauffeur, I leave my cars. He almost ruined them while I was living and I want him to have the satisfaction of finishing the job.

5. To my partner, I leave the suggestion that he take some other clever man in with him at once if he expects to do any business.

The bell rang. Slowly he rose to his feet and shook his clinched fist at the smiling blue sky. The sun shone brightly and the birds sang blithely. For all the rest of the world there was laughter, happiness and pleasure, but not for him. The world lay as a broken toy at his feet. His thoughts were heavy laden. All was dismal. There was no justice. For the first time this semester he had come to class prepared and the professor had "cut."

Most of us can remember when a girl's dress cost a whole lot less and covered a whole lot more.

I have been learning magic by correspondence. After the third lesson I turned my Chevrolet into a lamp-post.

Dr. James Kendall Is Heard by Local Chemical Society

Dr. James Kendall, professor of Physical Chemistry of the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, spoke to the American Chemical Society at 4 p. m., Tuesday, April 2, in the Organic Chemistry room of Kastle Hall. His subject was "The Abuse of Water."

Professor Kendall is a native of Surrey, England. He came to the United States in 1913 and now makes his home in New York City. He received his B. S., M. A., and D. S. degrees from Edinburgh University, and also attended the Nobel Institute, the Stockholm Technical Institute and the University of Petrograd. Since then he has been connected with Stanford University, the University of California, Columbia University, and Washington Square College, a part of New York University.

A dinner was given in Dr. Kendall's honor, and he went from here to Cincinnati. He will complete his tour at Charleston, W. Va.

'Y' CONFERENCE WILL BE HELD AT BLUE RIDGE, N. C.

University Delegates From Ten Southern States to Attend Meet

CAMP IS LOCATED IN MOUNTAINOUS REGION

Students Will Get Acquainted With Some of World's Greatest Thinkers

The Southern Students Conference of the Y. M. C. A. will be held at Blue Ridge, North Carolina, from June 14 to 24, with the Blue Ridge Association as hosts, according to a recent announcement from the local Y. M. C. A. officers. To this conference will come representatives of every type of college in the region, including State colleges, technical schools, medical, dental, law, theological, and other professional and denominational schools, independent colleges and universities. The conference draws delegates from ten Southern states, including on the north Virginia and Kentucky, and on the west runs to the Mississippi river, but includes also Louisiana.

Until 1911 the conferences were held in a number of places in or near the mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee. In 1912 the Blue Ridge Association opened its doors and was dedicated to its career of service to the South, by the conferences of the college Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. Since that year this spot has become a sort of shrine for the students of the South.

If present interest is an indication of the number of delegates who will be at Blue Ridge this summer, it is fair to predict that at least 100 schools and colleges will be represented. Several colleges from different states report that they will have unusually large delegations.

The conference is a definite part of the year's program of every local student Y. M. C. A. There the administration of the retiring student officers closes with an account of its achievements. Then also the new administration of the elected officers begins with the training of the new student leaders and the laying of definite plans for the coming year.

Meeting five hundred of the choicest students from colleges of ten Southern states, getting personally acquainted with some of the world's greatest thinkers and speakers and representative denominational leaders, and together with this company working and playing and thinking for ten days is an experience that will leave a lasting impression on the life of students who attend.

PROFESSOR WEBB TO LECTURE

The monthly meeting of the Pre-Medical Society will be held in the Science building Thursday night, April 11, at 7:30 o'clock. Professor Webb, head of the department of physics, will speak on Kentucky Archeology.

Y. W. C. A. Election Will Be Wednesday

Three Ballot Boxes Will Be Open on Campus From 9 to 4 o'Clock

The University Y. W. C. A. will hold its annual election Wednesday, April 10. Three boxes will be placed on the campus from 9 to 4 o'clock at McVey hall, the Administration building, and the Boyd hall office. The results, according to the usual custom, will be announced at the woman's annual banquet Thursday, April 11.

The nominating committee, which is composed of the members of the cabinet who are seniors, have presented the following nominees:

President: Alice Spaulding, Bernice Byland; secretary: Elizabeth Hensley, Christine Blakeman; treasurer: Elizabeth Cramer, Evelyn Cooley; finance chairman: Annette Newlin, Rosana Ruttencutter, Eleanor Swearingen.

The new cabinet, together with this year's cabinet, will hold a camp training conference at Camp Daniel Boone, May 10, 11, and 12, with the installation of new officers the following week.

The retiring officers are: President, Margaret Gooch; vice president, Elsie Bureau; secretary, Evelyn Cooley; treasurer, Dora Mae Duncan, and finance chairman, Gardner Whittinghill.

OUR PIONEERING WORK HAS JUST BEGUN

Mild, yes, but there's no Scotch in the flavor!

A well known golf pro recently returned from a vacation in Glasgow, his home town, relates a current golf magazine. "Well," he was asked, "how did the boys treat you back home?" "Verra reluctantly!" said he. Well might some smokers likewise reply if asked about their cigarette, we imagine. Mild, of course (most cigarettes are, today), but "verra reluctant" when it comes to delivering taste and body and character.

Chesterfields were blended to supply just that "body" which so many "mild" cigarettes lack. For in addition to that desirable blandness there is a distinct "edge" to its smooth, mellow flavor which is just what the smoke appetite craves. Mild—yes; just that mildness which everyone wants—but something more, something plus—character! The character that makes Chesterfields par for cigarettes. They satisfy!

CHESTERFIELD

MILD enough for anybody..and yet..THEY SATISFY
