

The University has taken an important step forward by launching the Spindletop Research Center and Park, a unique addition to the industrial growth of the Bluegrass state. A full range of research will be carried on by the University and private industry.

The Medical Center typifies the aim of the University to set the pace in educational facilities.

New plants will provide employment for Kentuck's labor force.

